The working farm owes its name to the birthplace of Bartolino, the architect of the 14th century old Estense Castle in Ferrara and first owner of the estate. The Arzenton family bought the property in 1926. The present farmhouse dates back to the 19th century. A reception hall, 2 dining rooms and a lounge welcome the guests. It has 7 spacious and bright guestrooms, 4 of which with private facilities TV and AC and 3 rooms with shared shower and Wc.
